

SPECIAL EVENT

The Green Mountain Girls and the Green Mountain Academy of Lifelong Learning proudly present a captivating speaker event featuring Meg Lowman.

Tuesday, June 11th
Long Trail School
Dorset, VT
5:30 - 7 PM

Meg Lowman, better known as "Canopy Meg," is a pioneering scientist and advocate for forest conservation. With a love for trees instilled from childhood, Meg has dedicated her life to studying and protecting the world's canopy ecosystems.

Her groundbreaking research on canopy ecology has shed light on the biodiversity and importance of treetop habitats. Meg's passion extends beyond the scientific realm, as she actively engages in outreach and education efforts to inspire others to appreciate and safeguard our planet's forests.

Through her work, she continues to be a leading voice in the fight against deforestation and the preservation of Earth's natural wonders.
